

Dandle•LION Bathing System

Developmental Bathing for Hospitalized Babies

The Dandy Tub should be placed in a quiet, dimly lit area in preparation for the bath.

Baby is swaddled in the Itty Bitty Blanket and remains alert and calm. His head is supported by Mom's hand while the rest of his body is submerged in the warm water.

Baby maintains self-regulation by keeping hands to mouth and using the bottom of the Tub to foot brace. Arms stay wrapped in the Itty Bitty Blanket while Mom is washing the lower extremities.

Baby and Mom are both happy after the bath! Mom is washing baby's hair after removing him from the Tub and wrapping him in warm blankets.

Babies Love the Dandy Tub!

- Supported, flexed and safe in the Bathing Hammock
- Warm and cozy in the water – just like in the womb!
- They don't cry! Most babies maintain a quiet alert state or drift off to sleep
- After a calm, quiet bath, most babies will have plenty of energy to breast or bottle feed

Parents Love the Dandy Tub!

- Easy to support and wash their baby
- Builds parent confidence
- Provides wonderful opportunity for parent-child interaction and bonding

Staff Love the Dandy Tub!

- Disposable Plastic Liner helps to reduce the risk of infection and protects baby from any cleaning product residue
- More efficient bathing, takes less time
- Easy to teach parents
- Easy clean up

Dandle•LION™

Medical

www.dandleLIONmedical.com